

SMOKESTACK HERB

666666

JUNIATA VALLEY AUDUBON SOCIETY

Vol 5 No 2

February 1973

"...the most important thing is to get together. ...It's this word 'share' I keep coming back to in my concerts all the time; I think it's more important than 'love', love has been so misused and so misunderstood -- but 'share' is a much more simple and direct word. And right now it's very easy to point out to anybody that the resources of the world are not being shared.

- Pete Seeger

FEBRUARY MEETING:

We are meeting in a new room/at the Children's Theater) of the Altoona Public Library - the Visual Aids Room - not an accurate labeling at best but it is easy to find. It's on the same level as the little theater. Enough space for us for the time being.

Time: 7:30 P.M.

Date: February 27th

Day: Tuesday

Program: Two short films - John James Audubon & Conserving Our Wildlife.

Business: Committee strengths/new Blair County Environmental Council/members interests - conversation-discussion./Field trip plans

State College Film

Wednesday, March 7, Dr. William J. Jahoda will present his film "Bermuda - Land and Sea" - a look at the land and the underwater world that surrounds it. Bermuda's coral reefs, angelfish, snappers, morays, barracudas, sharks, spiny lobsters, octopi, sea hares, and other aquatic wonders.

Time 8:00 P.M. Date: March 7th Place: State College High School Auditorium (Westerly Parkway). Price: Adult $1.00 Student: $.50

New Bird Book

Birds of Pennsylvania, by Dr. Merrill Wood, Assoc. Professor of Zoology at Penn State, is just off the presses. This is the second edition. It has been revised and enlarged. A very useful guide for the Pennsylvania bird watcher. A new section on how to identify escapes has been included. The book has a total of 186 pen and ink drawings and a calendar that indicates when species may be expected seasonally in the state.

The guide may be ordered from Penn State at $2.12 a copy. The address is: The Pennsylvania State University / 208 Life Sciences 1 / University Park, Pa. 16802.

Journey to Brigantine

We have information on Brigantine for anyone interested in traveling there. It is a wildlife refuge along the coast near Atlantic City. The government operates it year round. In February one might see diving ducks, rough-leg hawks, short-eared owls, bluebirds and maybe a bald eagle or snowy owl. March 20 to April 15

SMOKESTACK HERB

666666

JUNIATA VALLEY AUDUBON SOCIETY

Vol 5 No 2

February 1973

"...the most important thing is to get together. ...It's this word 'share' I keep coming back to in my concerts all the time; I think it's more important than 'love'. Love has been so misused and so misunderstood -- but 'share' is a much more simple and direct word. And might now it's very easy to point out to anybody that the resources of the world are not being shared.

- Pete Seeger

FEBRUARY MEETING:

We are meeting in a new room/at the Children's Theater) of the Altoona Public Library - the Visual Aids Room - not an accurate labeling at best but it is easy to find. It's on the same level as the little theater. Enough space for us for the time being.

Time: 7:30 P.M.

Date: February 27th

Day: Tuesday

Program: Two short films - John James Audubon & Conserving Our Wildlife.

Business: Committee strengths/new Blair County Environmental Council/members interests - conversation-discussion./Field trip plans

State College Film

Wednesday, March 7, Dr. William J. Jahoda will present his film "Bermuda - Land and Sea" - a look at the land and the underwater world that surrounds it. Bermuda's coral reefs, angelfish, snappers, morays, barracudas, sharks, spiny lobsters, octopi, sea hares, and other aquatic wonders.

Time 8:00 P.M. Date: March 7th Place: State College High School Auditorium (Westerly Parkway). Price: Adult $1.00 Student: $.50

New Bird Book

Birds of Pennsylvania, by Dr. Merrill Wood, Assoc. Professor of Zoology at Penn State, is just off the presses. This is the second edition. It has been revised and enlarged. A very useful guide for the Pennsylvania bird watcher. A new section on how to identify escapes has been included. The book has a total of 186 pen and ink drawings and a calendar that indicates when species may be expected seasonally in the state.

The guide may be ordered from Penn State at $2.12 a copy. The address is: The Pennsylvania State University / 208 Life Sciences 1 / University Park, Pa. 16802.

Journey to Brigantine

We have information on Brigantine for anyone interested in traveling there. It is a wildlife refuge along the coast near Atlantic City. The government operates it year round. In February one might see diving ducks, rough-leg hawks, short-eared owls, bluebirds and maybe a bald eagle or snowy owl. March 20 to April 15